Prevention: UDVC advocates for the advancement of policies and practices that prioritize victim safety and empowerment, raising awareness about the need for effective prevention and intervention in the context of domestic violence. UDVC strives to integrate effective public health strategies into its work, enhancing the state's ability to address domestic violence comprehensively. UDVC has successfully piloted two innovative prevention programs: (1) The Lethality Assessment Protocol (LAP) is an evidence-based tool that identifies individuals at risk of lethal intimate partner abuse and connects them with victim services. (2) HomeSafe is a flexible financial assistance program that addresses factors contributing to homelessness, ensuring survivors have access to stable housing.

UDVC's Outreach Coordinator provides technical assistance and training to address the unique needs of Utah's rural and tribal communities, tailoring services to meet their needs. Its outreach efforts extend to communities of color, immigrant and refugee families, individuals with disabilities, the LGBTQ community, and plural families. The LINKLine uses LAP to save lives through collaboration with law enforcement and service providers. UDVC also partners with the Refugee & Immigration Center to develop services for victims of human trafficking and, using the protocol, to connect high-risk trafficking victims with immediate expert assistance.
